Sketches of Ohio Candidates for Congress.

The Republican candidate in the First District is Auron F. Perry, a lawyer of Cincinnati, standing at the head of his profession, now in the prime of life, who has thus far eschewed politics, whose character has not therefore suffered by contact with that cesspool, held in high esteem by men of all parties for his tal-ents and probity, formerly a Whig, since a Republican, not, however, a partisan.
His opponent is Milton Saylor, a man of culture, also a lawyer, who, although descended from the aristocracy of Virginia, yet when the war broke out, either through patriotism or some less noble motive, proclaimed himself a Unionist, and was elected to the State Legislature as such from Hamilton district, and has since that time been more or less in politi- erwise are already predicting an unusually cal life. His Unionism gradually lost its brilliancy, and lest he might be found without color, he plunged headforemost into the Copperhead dye-pot, and came habitants to the control of out (although the dye was weak from ago and use) as bright a butternut as was ever seen. This district was represented in the last Congress by a Democrat, elected by a small majority. The probabilities are that the Republican candidate will now succeed.

The Republican candidate in the Second district is the Hon. Job Stevenson, the present member, who, although he has, sometimes, differed in his Congressional life from the ylews othis constituents, yet is so far acceptable to them as to meet their approval in a renomination. It is sufficient to say in his behalf, that he has never sought political preferment, but has been driven into that life by his friends and admirers. and admirers.

Opposed to him is the immortal Sa

Cary, and not otherwise Cary will be elected to stay at end with Samuel F. Cary, and not otherwise. Cary will be elected to stay at home or go to Europe.

The nominees in the Third District are Robert Schenck, Republican, and Lewis D. Campbell, Democrat. The excitement in this district is at fever heat Schenck is the present leader of the Republicans in the House, Chairman of Committee of—, is a thorough believer in, and teacher of, the doctrines formerly advocated by Henry Clay, whose desciple vocated by Henry Clay, whose desciple he was and is. Possessed of more force than grace, he turns aside for no obstacle, han grace, he turns aside to be op-out combats whatever and whoever opposes his cherished opinions boldly. His opponent, Campbell, is a small, wiry, sharp man, somewhat in years, who, 20 years ago, represented that section in Coness several terms, and was then cel brated as a bright, thorough, young Whig, brated as a origin, increage, young wing, known at home-since he always laid out the Democracy so effectually—as the Butler County Pony. At length corrupted by the influences of Washington life he became more a desciple of Old Bourbon. than of Henry Clay, and as naturally drifted to the Democracy as a duck to water, anchoring for a brief period at a Republican wharf There is his home election will be close, and will most election will be close, and will most likely result in the election of Schenck. In the remaining districts the result is ot expected to vary materially the polit ical complexion of the present representa-tion. In the Seventh District Samuel Shellabarger is pitted against Hugh J. Jewett, both among the ablest men of their parties. Jewett will probably be ccted, yet may not. In the Ninth District B. F. Dickenson

AN English engineer who was employed in 1849 upon the fortification of Paris states in the London Times that the entire walls are nothing but rubble, mainly small rough stones thrown together, and the joints filled in with ordinary mortar, such as is used for building material. The facings are of scabbled stone, not more than from eight to ten inches thick. The earthworks are much stronger than the frail walls, which, he says, heavy shot will send flying in all directions. However, experience will soon show whether he is right or not.

reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled, with the melsancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of deasure finds that he has imblect the seeds of his painful disease it too often happens that an il-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deers him from applying to those, who from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, elaying till the constitutional symptoms of this partid disease make, their appearance, such as o traveller returns."
